Program Information

Mammoths, camels and of course...sloths!

Spend this Homeschool Day at the La Brea Pits with the biggest mammals of the Ice Age. We'll explore what life was like for these amazing herbivores in Pleistocene Los Angeles, and how their fossils give us clues about survival and extinction.

Museum admission included!

They may offer special experiences and programs in the mornings on Homeschool Days.

To pick up tickets for these special program experiences, check in with a La Brea Tar Pits School Programs representative at the Welcome Table when you arrive. Tickets will be free and distributed on a first-come, first-served basis.

LUNCH & SNACK

You may bring a lunch safely secured in a backpack, however, they ask that all food (except water and baby formula) be consumed outside the facility. You are invited to picnic in Hancock Park, or on the picnic benches in front of the museum. You will also notice lots of restaurants right nearby on Wilshire Boulevard.
